

PUNTO BANCO

PUNTO BANCO is a game derived from Baccarat.

The game is played with eight decks of 52 cards: each card has its own nominal value, with the exception of 10s, Jacks, Queens and Kings, all worth 0. The croupier supervises the game.

After extracting the cards from the shoe, he presents a cutting card to the player; he, in turn, inserts a red card into approximately two eighths of the "huitain", creating the last hand of the game.

The first card drawn determines the number of cards that will be burned by the croupier (if the drawn card is a 7, seven cards will be burned; if the drawn card is a 10, Jack, Queen or King, ten cards will be burned).

The croupier has the PONTE cards to his right, the BANQUE cards to his left; the PONTE is revealed first, followed by the BANQUE; the draw table is then applied.

The PONTE is paid at a tie.

The BANQUE is paid 19 for 20.

The TIE, whose maximum amount cannot exceed an eighth of the maximum bet is paid out 8 for 1.

At the PONTE as at the BANQUE:

A total of 8 or 9 obtained with 2 cards is an "abattage"; no further cards can be drawn.

After drawing the two cards:

At the PONTE, a total between 0 and 5 requires the drawing of a further card.

At the BANQUE, the annexed chart determines the draw of an extra card.

In the event of a croupier error on the card draw, the draw is adjusted. If impossible, it is annulled.

In the event of a dispute, any decision taken by the Direction is final and without appeal.
